WESTWOOD's CENTRAL REGION ANNOUNCES NEW OFFICE LEADERSHIP

April 19, 2010

MINNEAPOLIS, MN – Westwood Professional Services, Inc., a national land and energy development consultant, has appointed Jay Wittstock to lead the St. Cloud, MN office. Wittstock brings 30 years of public and private land development experience to the position and has worked in the St. Cloud area for the past eight years. Wittstock has supported the development of transmission, pipeline, wind, and solar projects across the country, while maintaining a local Minnesota connection on projects for federal and county government. His perspectives from both the public and private sector viewpoints help to bridge the gap for ensuring a successful project.

Development of land projects will be transitioned to St. Cloud professional engineer, Will Huston. Huston will lead the central region on building and maintaining land clients in central Minnesota. Huston joined Westwood in 2005 providing engineering services to residential and commercial clients. His portfolio includes notable work on the District Square Office Park (St. Cloud, MN), Bugg Hill West (Onamia, MN) and Epic Center (Sartell, MN).
