WESTWOOD ANNOUNCES NEW SHAREHOLDERS

February 20, 2008

Westwood Professional Services, Inc. is proud to announce the addition of four new Shareholders of the company. These accomplished professionals have contributed greatly to the success of the company throughout the past years.

Aaron Tippie joined Westwood in 2005 to assist with the firm’s growing Energy market business. His responsibilities include development of new client relationships and expanding Westwood’s suite of professional services. His firsthand experience with wind energy project development provides Westwood with insight into the needs and priorities of Energy market clients.

Chris Hogle is a Project Surveyor specializing in boundary & topographic surveys, platting, ALTA/ACSM land title surveys, flood elevation studies, and construction staking. His knowledge of commercial and residential project management helps drive the success of each project. Chris deals directly with clients, civil engineers, site superintendents, architects, and government officials to make sure each phase of the project is dealt with properly.

Clare McDonough’s 23 years working closely with architects, engineers, and clients in development and construction industries lends to her broad range of experience. At Westwood, she works with the executive team to enhance client relationships and drive business strategies, marketing, and communications efforts. She is a degreed specialist in visual and technical communications, and has many years of experience as an integral member of both engineering and architectural project teams.

Rick Haglund has 31 years providing consulting services to land and energy development projects. As the director of wind energy development, he oversees operations on wind and transmission projects. Rick’s commitment to the success of Westwood’s clients can be seen in numerous projects throughout the country. He is a licensed land surveyor in Colorado and Wisconsin.
